Pet-Owning Philosophies

| Do you plan to use pet boarding, or pet-sitting services? Please describe.   | YES NO |
|--|--------|
| Some cats may have accidents or urine mark inside the house. How do you plan on dealing with this if it happens in your home?  |        |
| Most cats shed and may also require regular grooming. How do you plan on dealing with a new cat's grooming/bathing needs?  |        |
| Have you ever declawed a cat that you've owned? If yes, why?   |        |
| How do you plan on introducing a new cat to your other pets?   |        |
| Cats can take a long time to accept a new home. Sometimes they react by hiding, urinating in the house, acting scared, or other behaviors. How long are you willing to give a new cat time to adjust and what behaviors will you put up with before giving up and returning the new cat? |        |

| Are you willing to keep your pet up to date on vaccinations and protect them from fleas/ticks if needed?   | YES | NO |
|--|-----|----|
| Cats can hide illnesses well. Are you willing to provide regular routing veterinary care ( at least an annual exam, bloodwork, etc) for the rest of this pet's life?   | YES | NO |
| Are you willing to provide this pet with routine dental care if needed?  | YES | NO |
| Some cats have been known to live up to 20+ years. Are you willing to care for this pet for that long?   | YES | NO |
| If this pet develops an expensive or time consuming health problem (such as cancer, amputee, long-term medications, prescription food, etc), what would you do?  |     |    |
| Most of the pets we place are in good health, and we give adopters full details prior to adopting. If your rescue dog needed immediate dental, medical care, or emergency care, are you willing to provide it? | YES | NO |

Sometimes unforeseen circumstances arise. If you could no longer keep your pet(s), what would you do? Circle your answer(s).
